Welcome Back!

We welcome you to the 2021 season! We are excited to joyously gather together and celebrate live, in-person programming, beginning the season with the Cain Park Arts Festival on July 9-11, which has free admission all three days this year.

The first week of concerts features the return of Apollo's Fire Baroque Orchestra to Cain Park on July 13, followed in coming weeks with Anne E. DeChant, Paula Cole, Naturally 7, Indigo Girls, Tri-C JazzFest Cleveland, Soul Asylum/Juliana Hatfield, and Under the Streetlamp. Your dance favorites return with concerts by GroundWorks DanceTheater, Inlet Dance Theatre, Verb Ballets, and Dancing Wheels. There is also an abundance of free events this year with the Tuesday Chamber Music Series, Sundays in the Park and the return of Cain Park favorite, Terrance Simien and the Zydeco Experience.

Cain Park will celebrate the Cleveland Heights Centennial with "Musical Memories: The Best of Cain Park Theater" on August 21. This concert extravaganza will reunite beloved cast members for showstopping numbers from decades of musical productions at "Your Summer Arts Park." And the day begins in partnership with DanceCleveland with a free performance of KOLÂDE-XCOPE, an original collaborative and creative work that brings together world-renowned Hip Hop dance company, Raphael Xavier, live music, and Northeast Ohio's hip-hop community.

2021 Cain Park performances will be at reduced capacity. Seating will be limited for all events. All ticket sales will be restricted to 4 tickets per patron.

All events take place in the Evans Amphitheater except for KOLÂDE-XCOPE on August 21.

All seating is General Admission within designated price levels except for MultiMusic Fest on September 4 and Tri-C JazzFest Cleveland on September 11-12.

We are closely monitoring the pandemic. The 2021 Cain Park season will follow all CDC guidelines and Ohio rules, regulations, and suggested best practices that are in effect during our performance dates. The City may impose additional health and safety measures and/or may modify or cancel any event when in the interest of public safety.
